Rider University Tomorrow's Teachers Program IND 101: Introduction to Education

Program Information

1. Your high school must register for Rider University Tomorrow's Teachers Program by completing and faxing the Program Interest Form/Articulation Agreement (see attached) to Suzanne Carbonaro at 609-896-5363 by Friday, September 27, 2013.
2. Once your school has registered to participate in the program, your students will have the opportunity to participate in Rider University's IND: 101 Introduction to Education, which allows them to earn three (3) college credits and the option of attending two on campus events during the academic year. Each student who would like to earn college credit must complete the Student Registration Form. Once the teacher has collected all of the Student Registration Forms, they should be faxed to Suzanne Carbonaro at 609-896-5363 by Tuesday, October 15, 2013. Please note that students must have access to a computer at school, home or a public library in order to participate in the program.
3. The special pricing for IND: 101 Introduction to Education is $250 (yielding three (3) college credits). This course price includes all fees and online resources. All participating students in the Rider University IND: 101 Introduction to Education may request student identification cards and are entitled to use the campus libraries, online resources, and computer labs.
4. Through this partnership, Rider University credit will be awarded to students who earn a grade of B or better in the Tomorrow's Teachers course in their high school, complete additional assignments for Rider University and pay the $250 fee. The Rider University professor will provide ongoing support to you. This will include resources, both print and online, and feedback to your high school students based on selected assignments. All high school instructors who collaborate with the Rider University Tomorrow's Teachers program must hold a master's degree or gain approval from the Rider University Department of Teacher Education.
5. If the student attends Rider University School of Education, IND: 101 Introduction to Education will be accepted as elective credit toward graduation. Students may list courses taken at Rider University as college courses on most college applications. It will be at the discretion of the receiving institution to accept or deny these courses.
6. At the conclusion of your academic year, the Tomorrow's Teachers high school students will receive a final grade for IND 101. The grade will be recorded on an "official" transcript. An "unofficial" copy of the transcript will be mailed to the student's home soon after the end of the academic year (July) along with a Transcript Request Form (only graduating seniors should complete this form and return it to Rider University to authorize the mailing of sealed "official" transcripts to prospective colleges and universities).

School of Education

Dear Tomorrow's Teachers Parent:

Congratulations! Your student is beginning to explore a professional career that he or she may decide to later pursue in college. Currently, your son or daughter is enrolled in the Tomorrow's Teachers course at your local high school. Tomorrow's Teachers is an elective course developed by the Center for the Education, Recruitment, and Retention in South Carolina. The purpose of this one-year course is to provide high school students, who have expressed an interest in the teaching profession, with an opportunity to actively explore teaching and learning through collaborative exercises, rich discussion, examples, and practice of effective teaching strategies.

We are equally excited to offer your son or daughter the opportunity to also earn college credit at the completion of the Tomorrow's Teachers course through Rider University's School of Education, which offers over 18 nationally recognized undergraduate and graduate programs in the fields of education, school leadership, and counseling.

Rider University's School of Education Tomorrow's Teachers Program gives college-bound juniors and seniors the opportunity to earn college credit and experience university-style learning before they even graduate high school. Rider faculty and staff are available to provide students with various intellectual and cultural activities on our Lawrenceville campus and in collegial online communities.

Rider University has consistently thrived as a home for students seeking a timely, relevant and thorough curriculum and an environment to satisfy their intellectual curiosity. Founded in 1865, Rider University has also evolved into a diverse, comprehensive university with vibrant and expansive programs in the arts, sciences, and education. On a 280-acre tract of land on Route 206 in Lawrence Township, NJ, Rider's Lawrenceville campus is home to its College of Business Administration; College of Liberal Arts, Education, and Sciences; College of Continuing Studies, School of Education; and shares the Westminster College of the Arts with the Westminster Choir College of Rider University in Princeton, NJ. As a united entity, Rider University is a student-centered institution firmly grounded in a continued standard of excellence that is the hallmark of the Westminster and Lawrenceville programs, regardless of discipline, across the entire academic spectrum.

During the 2013-2014 academic year, students who are enrolled in the Tomorrow's Teachers course can enroll in Rider University's IND 101: Introduction to Education and receive college credit from Rider University. This fabulous opportunity not only allows your student to explore the teaching profession, but begin his or her college career with three (3) credits already completed at a nationally accredited institution.

Requirements for College Credit:

1. Please fill out the Tomorrow's Teachers registration form given to you by your child's teacher to enroll in the Rider University Course IND 101: Introduction to Education and have your child return it to his or her teacher. Please complete this application no later than Tuesday, October 15, 2013.
2. The special pricing for this course is $250 (yielding three (3)-credits). This inclusive course price includes all fees and online resources. All participating students in the Rider University IND 101: Introduction to Education may request student identification cards and are entitled to use the campus libraries, online resources, and computer labs. Do not send money now. All registered students will be billed by Rider University later.
3. Your child must receive a final grade of a "B" or better and complete additional assignments for Rider University (which may include papers, online discussions, etc.) in order to earn the college credit.
4. At the conclusion of the academic year, your child's teacher will submit your child's final grade for Tomorrow's Teachers to Rider University. If your child earns a "B" or better in the Tomorrow's Teachers course, successfully completes the additional assignments for Rider University and has paid the $250 course fee, the grade will be recorded on an "official transcript." An "unofficial" copy of the transcript will be mailed to your home soon after the end of the academic year along with a Transcript Request Form (only graduating seniors should complete and return this form and return it to Rider University to authorize the mailing of sealed "official" transcripts to prospective college and universities).
5. The course taken through Rider University may be used for elective credits to meet college graduation requirements. The student may list courses taken at Rider University as college courses on most college applications. It will be at the discretion of the receiving institution to accept or deny these courses.
